COMMUNITY FOUNDATION

Annual Report 1993

MOSAIC
COMMUNITY

Like a mosaic, the Oklahoma City Community Foundation is made up of many parts that fit together to create a whole: those who give, the donors; those who guide, the Foundation's staff, trustees, and investment counselors; those who receive, agencies with Designated Funds and Grants; and those who ultimately benefit, the people of this community.

Our mosaic is somewhat blurred, unfinished, always changing. Each year new Name Funds are added, blending the interests of new donors into already existing funds or expanding our boundaries into new areas. We have found new ways of preserving capital and creatively financing new ventures. We have supported new cooperative efforts that produce a joint result that surpasses what individual efforts could have done.

At the end of this past fiscal year, total assets were $81 million. Total return on all funds was 8.25 per cent. Endowment earnings distributed to Designated Funds, donor-advised and trustee grants were $2.8 million.

Leadership Oklahoma City has created a new Affiliated Fund at the Community Foundation.

Sometimes the Community Foundation acts as a facilitator, helping donors and agencies achieve goals they have already set for themselves. Other times the Foundation takes a more proactive role, as with the Kirkpatrick Challenge matching funds campaign or with the beginnings of the planning process that became Central Oklahoma 2020. With four new trustees, Jeanette Gamba, Raymond H. Hefner Jr., William Johnstone, and Anne Hodges Morgan, we have expanded the size of our board and continued to provide for the evolution of our leadership into this, our 25th year.

AFFILIATED FUNDS

The Oklahoma City Community Foundation provides support for nine organizations called Affiliated Funds. Each fund has its own board of trustees and is separately incorporated as a 509 (a)(3) non-profit organization. The Community Foundation appoints a majority of the board of each Affiliated Fund and provides all management and investment services. The trustees of each fund make the decisions about earnings distributions and provide direction for investment of the fund's assets. Affiliated Funds provide customized management for the assets of a charitable foundation and the endowment funds of non-profit organizations. Leadership Oklahoma City established an Affiliated Fund at the Community Foundation this year.

COWBOY HALL OF FAME AFFILIATED FUND

Founded in 1990, the Cowboy Hall of Fame Affiliated Fund was formed with the assets of a former Designated Fund which benefitted the National Cowboy Hall of Fame and Western Heritage Center. This fund is a major component of the long-term endowment plan for the museum.

Today, Ditch Witch equipment is used all over the world; headquarters are still in Perry. KIRKPATRICK CHALLENGE IS ONE OF A KIND

In the world of foundations, it is not unusual for matching grants to be made available for specific projects. What was unusual about the Kirkpatrick Challenge, the second in the Foundation's 24-year history, was the breadth of its application. Any non-profit at the Oklahoma City Community Foundation with a Designated Endowment Fund of less than $25,000, was eligible. Designated Funds help non-profits attract and manage endowments, which provide a steady source of income.

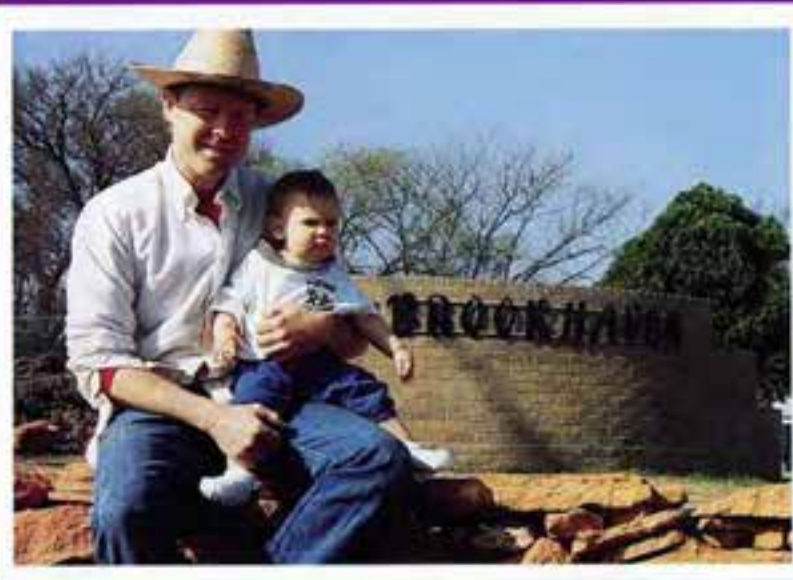

To our knowledge, no other foundation in the United States has been given this kind of opportunity from one of its donors. No group of non-profit organizations could have mobilized better to meet the Kirkpatricks' unique challenge, which spanned a seven-week period.

The Referral Center held a sell-out, non-alcoholic beverage evening at Jokers. David Sapper, President of the Belle Isle Neighborhood Association, canvassed his neighborhood. "Anytime someone would say he could only give $25, I told him it was like giving $50," Sapper said. "Our endowment fund will enable us to maintain our project and the whole western front of the neighborhood."

Responses to mail campaigns were impressive. Linda Bonebrake, mother of three Kerr-McGee swimmers, said she wrote a "passionate" letter to other swimmers' parents, pointing out that if everyone gave $30 the club would be eligible for the total challenge grant. The response was better than ever before, she said. Carolyn Simms, Director of the Myriad Gardens Foundation, said the master plan calls for landscaping 22 gardens; an endowment is essential for maintaining them. The Challenge helped the Gardens start its memorial gift program.

Saint James School included the Kirkpatrick Challenge in its annual giving campaign letter. Although the giving period usually ends in May, most donations were paid by December 1 to help the school meet the challenge. With the help of its preschool committee, the Erna Krouch Preschool did its first solicitation ever, sending out a mailing to 600 and receiving 84 responses. Original donors when the fund was established in 1980 reappeared through their donations, and others gave who had never given before.

Of the 74 non-profits contacted for the Challenge, 65 responded. Of those, 56 made half the challenge or greater; of those, 44 made it to 95 % of the challenge or all the way. In seven weeks, 750 contributions added up to a grand total of $341,380. Some funds that had been dormant for a number of years now sparkled with a new bottom line and the prospect of increased endowment income.

To celebrate the Community Foundation's 25th year, another Kirkpatrick Challenge is now underway, this time for Designated Funds less than $50,000. If the total challenge is reached by the deadline on December 10, $2 million will be added to the Designated Endowment Funds at the Community Foundation. With the kind of enthusiasm and broad based support as that generated by last years' challenge, the journey will again be as important as the destination.

NAME FUNDS

Since 1969, thousands of individual contributions have been made to the permanent endowment funds of the Oklahoma City Community Foundation. Name Funds are those individuals and groups whose total contributions have reached $5,000. Earnings on these Name Funds benefit those organizations or areas of interest specified by the donors. When earnings are distributed to organizations, they are always identified by the contributing Name Fund.

A Name Fund is a permanent contribution. Through Name Funds, donors can express support for their own charitable interests or provide recognition for others they wish to honor.

As you read through the list of Name Funds as of June 30, 1993, you will note both the breadth of support for the Community Foundation and the diversity of organizations and activities which receive its financial support.

NAME FUNDS PROVIDE LINK

A Name Fund is a vehicle for living donors to actively direct financial support to causes they care about now. A fund named for a friend or loved one is like a promise, to continue to support the interests of that person and provide a link between his times and the present. Name Funds are a reminder that a community evolves from the efforts and personalities of the people who have gone before us, as well as those who are here now.

C.R. Anthony was a merchant who knew the value of a customer. He used to say that his work was his fun, and his "fun" was opening new Anthony's stores. This took more than a little tenacity, no doubt nurtured by an innate flair for salesmanship and a good dose of hardship.

Anthony was born in 1884 in Gibson County, Tennessee, to a poor itinerant farmer and his wife. As a young child, his hero was a country store keeper named Watson. Both parents died while C.R., his brother and two sisters were still young children. The family broke up, and for a while C.R. made his living as a jockey. His other relatives were too poor to keep him, so he saved up money from odd jobs and bought a train ticket to Holdenville, Indian Territory.

There, at the age of 13, C.R. got his first job working in a mercantile. From then on, he knew he wanted his own store. That happened for the first time when he was 19, but drought and poor credit forced him to sell the business. Later he worked for J.C. Penney, who was opening chain stores that sold for cash at the lowest possible mark-up that would still allow for a profit. In 1922 Anthony opened the "Dixie Store," and with its opening, Anthony's apprenticeship was over. In the early days, Anthony often took his family to the office with him on Saturday nights. He and his wife Lutie had five children. By 1964, the C.R. Anthony Company had more than 300 stores operating in every state west of the Mississippi except Nevada and Utah.

Anthony was a civic leader and expected his store managers to take an active interest in their communities. He used to say, "A store, a company, a man can only prosper in direct proportion to what he puts into his community, his country and his life." Earnings from his Name Fund are designated to benefit the Childrens' Medical Research Foundation.

Khanh Sherman.

Khanh Sherman was only ten years old when an automobile accident ended his life. Jack Perry, principal of Mustang Valley Elementary School in Yukon, remembers him as a well-liked boy with an impish grin and a generous heart. Khanh was an outstanding student who also enjoyed sports, music, video games, and people. He played a leadership role at home as well as at school, interpreting for those family members whose primary language is still Vietnamese. Khanh's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Steve Sherman of Houston, set up a Name Fund in his memory which will benefit the Mustang Valley P.T.A. Some trees have already been planted in front of the school in his memory.

R.W. Lee was a civic leader in Oklahoma City and prominent member of the Oklahoma City community for almost half a century. His transportation career began with a horse and wagon in Western Oklahoma and ended with a multi-million dollar transcontinental truck line called Lee Way Motor Freight. Nationally prominent and highly regarded in motor carrier circles, he was supported and encouraged every step along the way by Bess, his wife of 53 years. Their children and grandchildren have established a fund in memory of Mr. and Mrs. Lee. The fund will support donor-advised contributions.

Mary Rumsey was the first president of the Oklahoma City Junior League in 1927. She was a pioneer board member of the Oklahoma Symphony, her most important volunteer effort next to the Junior League. She had definite standards from which she never varied, yet was more receptive to new ideas than people many years younger. It was not uncommon for Mary to phone a friend and exclaim, "Please read Bill Buckley's column this morning. He has the most fascinating new slant on politics."

Mary would probably like the idea of the Junior League annually recognizing a sustainer for continuing volunteerism after active membership in the League. The winner receives $1,000, which is distributed to the agency or agencies of her choice. A fund has been set up in Mary's name that will provide the money for the annual Mary Baker Rumsey Lifetime Commitment Award.

Blanche and Mildred Holland were sisters who taught at Classen and Northwest Classen High School during the forties, fifties, and sixties. They were the youngest of nine children, born into the family of a circuit riding Methodist minister who moved to Norman so that his children could live at home and attend the University of Oklahoma.

Blanche taught history, Mildred taught business courses. Adventurous travelers, the sisters toured Europe shortly before the outbreak of World War II, a time when many historians might have advised staying at home instead of plunging across that turbulent continent. The Hollands are remembered as good, no-nonsense teachers who "drilled it into you," but whose interest in educating went beyond subject matter to interest in their students as individuals.

Earnings from their Name Fund will support scholarships at Casady School.

PRESERVING CAPITAL TAKES MANY FORMS

Bill Shdeed started the Oklahoma City University Law School Dean's Fund at the Community Foundation in 1976. He had earned a good fee settling a lawsuit and wanted to give something back to the place where he had received his law training. "I knew Mr. Kirkpatrick sometimes matched funds, so I thought it would grow," he said. The fund was a discretionary one for the Dean's use.

Last fall, trustees of a small foundation at Oklahoma City University Law School were in the midst of deciding to terminate the foundation and distribute its assets to the school. The benefits of maintaining the foundation did not justify the cost and effort of administering it.

A letter about the Kirkpatrick Challenge had reached the Law School Dean's Desk. Instead of terminating the foundation, the trustees decided to deposit the foundation's money, thereby doubling it, into the Dean's Fund that Shdeed had started years before.

All the Words of Jesus, a comprehensive thesaurus of all the words spoken by Jesus in the King James version of the Bible, is a recently published book labored over by its author, Raymond Long, for 15 years. Long was retired from the U.S. Postal Service in Oklahoma City. His wife, known as Laura Ambrose, was controller, and later president, of the John A. Brown Company before its sale to Dayton Hudson.

By the time Long had finished his work on the thesaurus, he was

"The mission of the Oklahoma City Community Foundation, a non-profit public charity, is to serve the charitable needs of the Oklahoma City area through the development and administration of Endowment Funds with the goal of preserving capital and enhancing its value for the benefit of the Oklahoma City area."

Mission Statement 1992

terminally ill and unable to shepherd it through to publication. He incorporated a foundation, appointed trustees, and deposited over $100,000 at the Oklahoma City Community Foundation from his estate and his wife's. He asked his friend and neighbor Pendleton Woods to follow through on publication and oversee the use of any funds obtained. Any money not needed in the cost of publication was to be used to benefit the homeless and needy. Initially, earnings from the original funds and proceeds from book sales will be directed to the Jesus House of Oklahoma City.

This year, Leadership Oklahoma City established an Affiliated Fund at the Community Foundation. Now in its twelfth year, Leadership Oklahoma City is a program designed to develop leaders for this community. The Affiliated Fund is the culmination of a five-year effort which will continue as funds are added. The Fund will protect Leadership's endowment and provide strong returns, which will help ensure the future of the program.

Last year, the Mark Allen Everett Foundation was transferred to the Oklahoma City Community Foundation as the Everett Foundation Fund. This will help minimize the time spent by family members administering the fund, while preserving its original purposes; those include civic, religious, charitable, scientific, literary, or educational activities. The principal emphasis of the Mark Allen Everett Foundation has been on scholarships and awards in medicine and the fine arts.

The Everett Fund's Advisory Committee at the Community Foundation will initially consist of the trustees of the original foundation. Successor advisors will be nominated by the remaining advisors and named by Community Foundation Trustees or its Executive Committee. In the future, grants recommended by the Advisory Committee will be submitted to the Grants Review Committee of the Oklahoma City Community Foundation for final approval, in a manner consistent with policies now governing donor-advised and escrow funds.

Non-cash assets, specifically real estate, oil and gas properties, have been significant additions to the Oklahoma City Community Foundation's capital base. Such assets came from the estates of both Clarence Page and Colonel William E. Bleakley, pioneer aviators in Oklahoma. It is significant and appropriate that these assets continue to support the Air Space Museum.

Bleakley began as a country school teacher in Caddo County, later was active in pioneer Oklahoma City aviation circles. He served in both World Wars, and as a civilian operated a flight ferrying and instruction service. He managed what is now the Will Rogers World Airport. At the time of his retirement in 1955, Bleakley had flown more than 60 types of military and civilian aircraft. His sons decided to create a Name Fund for him with oil and gas leases from his estate. Clarence Page also learned to fly as an Army pilot during World War I. During World War II, he conducted primary flight training school at Cimmarron Field, now named Clarence E. Page Airport. Later he progressed from barnstormer to millionaire. He was the principal donor to the Air Space Museum and served as its President and Curator until his retirement in 1988.

CREATIVE FINANCING ADDS TO COMMUNITY'S BOTTOM LINE

Sometimes, assets come to the Community Foundation in ways that are as individual as their donors.

Tom and Pat Brewer and Sandy and Stewart Meyers have donated life insurance policies to the Community Foundation. The premiums they pay are tax deductible, and they can still advise the Foundation as to where they want the money directed when the policies are paid out.

Tom was born in Oklahoma City and now lives in Missouri with wife Pat, a high risk obstetrician. Tom manages a health service program for elderly patients. When they married in 1985, the Brewers sought a vehicle which would allow them to perpetuate their support of various philanthropic interests they had in common. Neither had much investment experience or the time to acquire it, so a friend suggested they invest in life insurance policies. A life insurance policy guarantees that a certain amount of money will be available when the policy matures.

When Sandy Meyers' daughter became a life insurance agent, Sandy wanted to be her first customer. She also wanted to establish some endowment support for a downtown cultural facility that she hopes will someday be built. Transferring ownership of the policy to the Community Foundation, and making the Community Foundation the beneficiary of her policy, gave Sandy a charitable tax deduction for premium payments and the flexibility to designate a different recipient in the future if the cultural facility does not materialize.

Name Funds can grow in frequent modest increments as well as occasional large amounts. They may result from the efforts of one person or the efforts of many.

Two years ago, Ruth Orcutt retired and started working at Presbyterian Urban Mission, coordinating their tutoring program. She wanted to provide some lasting financial support to this group and two others - Neighbor for Neighbor and World Neighbors. She decided that $30 a month was all she could afford, so that is just what she has done every month since then. It won't be long before her Donor Fund becomes a Name Fund.

Oklahoma City Future Fund is being built by a group of young men and women who enjoy getting together and doing something for the community. Members have pledged at least $1,000 to the Future Fund, to be paid in $200 yearly increments. Their mission is to provide endowed financial support to non-profit organizations that serve youth in the Oklahoma City area. Last fall, their first grant went to Infant Crisis Services.

Sometimes, having a plan for becoming self-sufficient in the future can attract funds to present needs. Ballet Oklahoma needed new sets and costumes for its production of Nutcracker, but lacked the reserves to buy them. Knowing that the need would come again in the future, Ballet Oklahoma's grant request to the Sarkeys Foundation included a plan for setting aside 2% of single ticket sales from Nutcracker proceeds every year. The Oklahoma City Community Foundation would set up an escrowed account for saving the money. Sarkeys awarded the grant, Nutcracker has a new set and costumes, and Ballet Oklahoma's first check to the escrowed account of the Oklahoma City Community Foundation was for $4,115.

Over the years, the Oklahoma City Community Foundation and the Sarkeys Foundation have been on the funding side of the same projects, and in some cases like that of the Nutcracker escrowed account, have worked together to accomplish a common goal.

The Sarkeys Foundation was formed by S.J. Sarkeys, who was born in Lebanon in 1874 and emigrated to the United States when he was 17. He was on his way to South America when a brother he was visiting in Saint Louis showed him a new invention called a carbide lamp. Sarkeys found a market for the lamps in Oklahoma, and as he peddled them around the countryside he began to buy oil and gas leases. His wife died of tuberculosis when their only son was three years old, and over the years his financial fortunes continued the ebb and flow that is characteristic of the oil business.

Years later, when asked for advice on how to make money, Sarkeys said that first it is better not to have a wife; if his had lived, he would have been more conservative. His second piece of advice was to live to old age; that way you are around long enough to lose it all and make it again. He was 90 when he died in 1965, three years after setting up the Sarkeys Foundation with 2,750 shares of Sarkeys Inc. stock. Its articles of incorporation state that the foundation was organized for religious, charitable, scientific and educational purposes.

FINANCIALS

Serving the charitable needs of the Oklahoma City area requires that the Oklahoma City Community Foundation provide both efficient administration of charitable funds and effective methods of investment which maximize the resources available to support the needs of the community. By keeping its cost of administration low, the Community Foundation provides a valuable service for both donors and agencies which encourages increased contributions and the growth of permanent funds.

In the fiscal year ending June 30, 1993, the total cost of operation was .63 percent of market value, well below the national average for community foundations of 1.50 percent.

Investment performance for the pooled resources of the Community Foundation has added significant value to the individual funds at the Foundation. One of the greatest advantages of the Community Foundation for an individual donor or organization with an endowment fund is the ability to benefit from the professional investment services which the Community Foundation employs and to share in the diversity of both management styles and investment vehicles which a large endowment fund can provide.

During the past fiscal year, the total return on all funds of the Community Foundation was 8.25 percent. Designated Fund organizations received a 5.0 percent cash distribution and additional appreciation of 1.5 percent added to the value of the fund giving a total return of 6.6 percent. A 91-day Treasury Bill returned about 3.24 percent during the year.

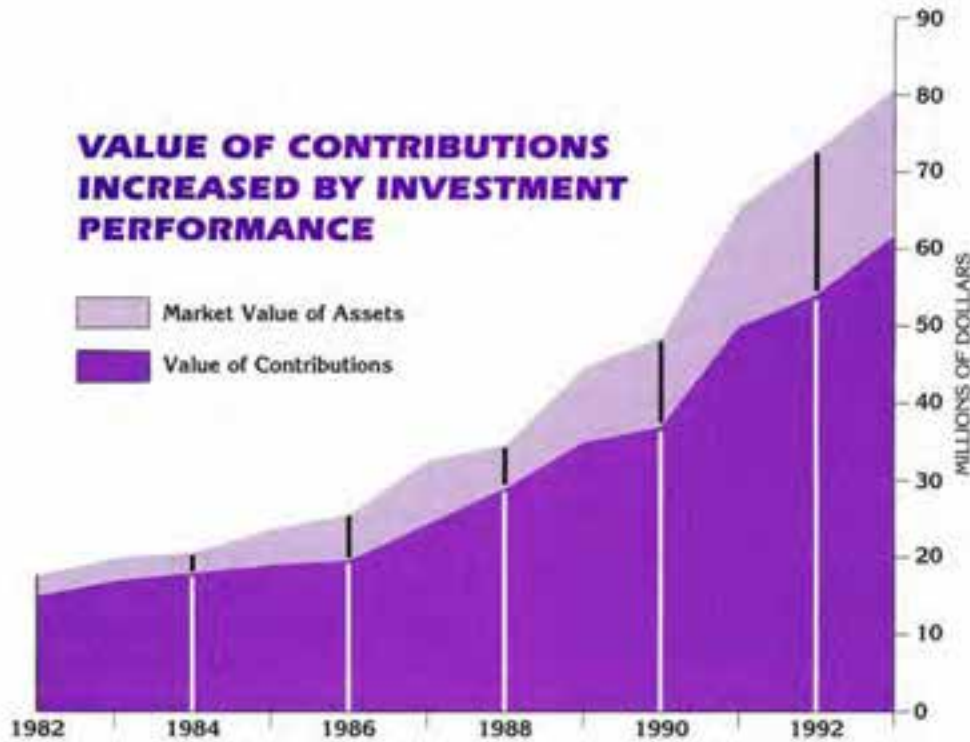

Investment performance is viewed in the long-term by the Investment Committee. The average annual return on all Community Foundation funds for the period 1988-1993 was 11.13 percent. This five-year performance compares favorably to both market indices and the performance of other funds.

All investment management services at the Oklahoma City Community Foundation are provided by Bank of Oklahoma, Boatmen's Bank, and Liberty Bank. James Hotchkiss, investment counsel, meets regularly with the investment managers and the Investment Committee to monitor the performance. While the investment performance cannot be guaranteed, donors and non-profit organizations can be assured that the Community Foundation gives full attention to achieving the best long-term investment results for its funds.

Cole & Reed, P.C. Independent Auditors' Report

The Board of Trustees
Oklahoma City Community Foundation, Inc.
Oklahoma City, Oklahoma

We have audited the accompanying statements of assets, liabilities and fund balance arising from cash transactions of Oklahoma City Community Foundation, Inc. as of June 30, 1993 and 1992, and the related statements of activity and changes in fund balance arising from cash transactions, and changes in cash balances for the years then ended. These financial statements are the responsibility of the Foundation's management. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on these financial statements based on our audits.

We conducted our audits in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards. Those standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. An audit also includes assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall financial statement presentation. We believe that our audits provide a reasonable basis for our opinion.

As described in Note A, these financial statements were prepared primarily on the basis of cash receipts and disbursements, which is a comprehensive basis of accounting other than generally accepted accounting principles.

In our opinion, the financial statements referred to above present fairly, in all material respects, the assets, liabilities and fund balance arising from cash transactions of Oklahoma City Community Foundation, Inc. at June 30, 1993 and 1992, and the results of its activities and changes in fund balance arising from cash transactions, and the changes in its cash balances for the years then ended, on the basis of accounting described in Note A.

As discussed in Note B to the financial statements, the Foundation changed its method of valuing certain investments during 1993. The 1992 financial statements presented in comparative form with the 1993 financial statements have been restated to conform with the new method.

Our audits were made for the purpose of forming an opinion on the basic financial statements taken as a whole. The combining statement of assets, liabilities and fund balance arising from cash transactions is presented for purposes of additional analysis and is not a required part of the basic financial statements. Such information has been subjected to the auditing procedures applied in the audits of the basic financial statements and, in our opinion, is fairly stated in all material respects in relation to the basic financial statements taken as a whole.

NOTES TO FINANCIAL STATEMENTS

OKLAHOMA CITY COMMUNITY FOUNDATION, INC.

June 30, 1993

The Oklahoma City Community Foundation, Inc. (the "Foundation") was incorporated December 31, 1968 under the laws of the State of Oklahoma, as a nonprofit organization without capital stock to serve the charitable needs of the Oklahoma City area through the development and administration of endowment funds with the goal of preserving capital and enhancing its value for the benefit of the Oklahoma City area.

NOTE A - SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES

Basis of Accounting: The Foundation prepares its financial statements primarily on the basis of cash receipts and disbursements; consequently, certain revenues and the related assets are recognized when received rather than when earned, and certain expenses are recognized when paid rather than when the obligation is incurred. The principal differences between this basis and generally accepted accounting principles are due to the methods used to account for contributions receivable, accrued interest and dividends, accounts payable and accrued expenses, and distributions payable. The cash basis is used for all instances except purchased interest, which is included as an asset until the income is actually received, and depreciation of buildings and equipment.

The accompanying financial statements include the assets, liabilities, fund balance and activities of the Foundation and its eight affiliated organizations:

Affiliated Organizations	Formed During Year Ended June 30
The William E. and Margaret H. Davis Family Fund of The Oklahoma City Community Foundation, Inc.	1987
The Chesapeake Affiliated Fund of The Oklahoma City Community Foundation, Inc.	1989

The Kirkpatrick Center Affiliated Fund of The Oklahoma City Community Foundation, Inc.	1989
The Kirkpatrick Family Affiliated Fund of The Oklahoma City Community Foundation, Inc.	1989
Cowboy Hall of Fame Affiliated Fund of The Oklahoma City Community Foundation, Inc.	1991
Oklahoma Air Space Museum Affiliated Fund of The Oklahoma City Community Foundation, Inc.	1991
Oklahoma City Art Museum Affiliated Fund of The Oklahoma City Community Foundation, Inc.	1992
Melzahn Family Affiliated Fund of The Oklahoma City Community Foundation, Inc.	1992

The Affiliated Funds are combined with the Foundation in the accompanying financial statements because the Foundation effectively controls the Funds' Board of Trustees and distributions made by the Funds exclusively benefit the charitable and educational purposes of the Foundation.

Contributions: Certain contributions made to the Foundation have been designated for a particular purpose by the donors. It is the expressed intention of the Foundation to honor the designations of donors; however, the Foundation reserves the power to exercise final control over all funds.

It is the intent of the Foundation to distribute all encrowded contributions received. Thus, these contributions will not become a part of the permanent fund balance.

Investments: Securities and other investments are maintained by local trustee banks in various trust funds. Cash equivalent funds are comprised of short-term, highly liquid investments that are readily convertible into known amounts of cash. Cash equivalent funds, U.S. Government obligations, bonds, and common and preferred stocks are reported at market value in the accompanying balance sheets. Market values are based on quoted market prices, if available, or the best estimate of market value as determined by the Foundation or the trustee banks. All other investments are valued at the lower of aggregate cost or market value. The cost basis of donated investments is the fair market value at the date of receipt. Realized gains and losses on sales of securities represent the difference between the sales proceeds and historical cost basis.

Property and Equipment: Property and equipment is stated at cost. The basis of donated property and equipment is its fair market value at the date of receipt. Depreciation is computed using the straight-line method over the estimated useful lives of the assets. The estimated useful lives are five years for furniture, fixtures, and equipment, and twenty years for buildings.

Oil and Gas Properties: Producing oil and gas properties are amortized based on production. Nonproducing oil and gas properties are not amortized until such time as they become producing.

Reclassifications: Certain reclassifications have been made in the 1992 financial statements to conform to the classifications used in the 1993 financial statements.

NOTE D - CONTRIBUTED SERVICES

Several of the Foundation's trustees provide contributions in the form of services performed at no cost. The value of the services is not reflected in these statements since it is not susceptible to objective measurement or valuation.

NOTE E - INCOME TAXES

The Internal Revenue Service has ruled that the Foundation qualifies under Section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue code and is, therefore, not subject to tax under present income tax laws.

NOTE F - RETIREMENT PLAN

Effective July 1, 1991, substantially all employees of the Foundation began participation in the Retirement Plan of Oklahoma City Community Foundation, Inc., commonly known as a Section 403(b) annuity plan. Under the plan, the Foundation contributes amounts not to exceed 7% of the respective employee's regular salary to provide retirement benefits. In addition, the employees may contribute up to 20% of their regular salary to the plan. Contributions are subject to Internal Revenue Service limitations. Contributions made by the Foundation are 100% vested after seven years of service. Benefits paid under the plan are limited to the sum of the employee's and the Foundation's contributions and investment earnings on those contributions. The Foundation contributed $6,480 and $7,463, respectively, to the plan during the years ended June 30, 1993 and 1992.

GRANTS

During the fiscal year ending June 30, 1993, the Oklahoma City Community Foundation distributed $2.8 million of endowment earnings to support community organizations and activities. These grants were made through four separate programs:

Designated Fund earnings are those from contributions which have been specifically designated to benefit individual charitable organizations. In addition to these cash distributions, the agencies also received an allocation from realized investment gains.

Donor-advised grants are made from Name Funds when the donor advises the Trustees of the Community Foundation as to which organizations should receive contributions from that donor's Name Fund.

Trustee grants are recommended by the Grants Committee of the Trustees of the Community Foundation. Earnings supporting these grants come from the Fund for Oklahoma City and other funds that have been established for specific areas of interest.

Grants from the nine Affiliated Funds at the Oklahoma City Community Foundation are made by the trustees of those funds and administered by the Community Foundation.

JOINT EFFORTS CAN ACCOMPLISH MORE

A joint effort can often accomplish more, with less money, than when different non-profit organizations pursue the same goal separately. These joint efforts, or cooperatives, are beneficial not only because they are efficient and cost effective. Extra energy is generated when people and organizations, in a tug of war for resources, decide to coordinate their efforts and pull together on the same side of the rope.

Last year, seven organizations recognized a need for one centralized source of good, used furniture for families and individuals relocating from shelters back into the community. Community Counseling, Catholic Social Charities, City Rescue, American Red Cross, REST, Travelers Aid, and St. Vincent de Paul formed a coalition and opened CCCarts. This operation receives and warehouses donated furniture and clothing and distributes it to individuals and families referred by other agencies and churches. Open full-time, CCCarts provides these services free. A grant from the Oklahoma City Community Foundation has helped CCCarts offset operating expenses.

We've Got Rhythm is an educational program for third graders which integrates art, science, history, music and humanities programs. It was begun in 1991 by the Oklahoma City Art Museum, Kirkpatrick Center, Kirkpatrick Galleries, and the Oklahoma City Philharmonic. This program uses a multicultural approach to increase students' awareness of the interrelationships between the arts and sciences by presenting and examining the common element of rhythm.

This program is extensive and multifaceted. Participating agencies send docents and educators to each school at scheduled times during the course of the year, then allow the school groups to visit each agency. Four multicultural performances are held in each school, as well as a Youth Concert at the Civic Center which each school may attend. We've Got Rhythm provides a teacher workshop to inform teachers about logistics of the visits and to help them integrate the themes of the program into their classes.

In 1991, six schools and 400 students participated in this program. With the help of a grant from the Oklahoma City Community Foundation, a part time director was hired and the number of schools and students doubled the next year. This year the program will serve 14 schools and nearly 950 students.

We've Got Rhythm was recently selected as one of two Oklahoma arts programs to be recognized and honored in the Kennedy Center's Arts Publication.

A section of Lincoln Boulevard that used to be termed a "mundane corridor" to the Oklahoma State Capitol has seen significant improvement through the efforts of The Greater Oklahoma City Tree Bank, the State Capitol Area Association, the Oklahoma Department of Corrections, Firststep Recovery Program, and the City of Oklahoma City Parks and Recreation Department.

A grant from the Margaret Annis Boys Trust at the Oklahoma City Community Foundation provided funds for over 200 trees, which have been planted along the median from Northeast 28th to 50th Street. Maintenance is provided by the Department of Corrections and the City of Oklahoma City on a weekly schedule, and a water truck is provided by Firststep Recovery. Mary Gilmore Caffrey, Director of the Oklahoma City Tree Bank, states that without the formation of a cooperative, this project would have been impossible.

Youth Services and the Oklahoma City Public School District created the School-Based Service Program and implemented it in two especially needy schools in the fall of 1992. The program helps underprivileged elementary students both in and outside of school. Two professionals from Youth Services assist the school's counselors five days a week at each school. They provide individual and group counseling, parent education training, in-service training to teachers, and make home visits. Children with extensive problems are referred to appropriate services; the counselors then follow-up.

At each school, Advisory Committees consist of parents, teachers, administrators, Youth Service Board Members, and other agency members. These advisory groups are building a sense of community as they work together to alleviate problems existing in the schools and their surrounding environment.

With a grant from the Community Foundation, this working partnership between Youth Services and the Oklahoma City Public Schools will be able to offset operating expenses during its second year.

Visitors to Kerr Park have the Couch Drive Improvement Association to thank for upkeep and improvements made to this pleasant meeting place in downtown Oklahoma City. In 1981, the business owners located around the 100 block of Couch Drive pooled their resources to ensure continual funding for the park's upkeep. Kerr-McGee, a member of the Association, has provided landscaping, chemicals, pots, tables, and cleaning services for the area, while the other organizations have regularly contributed funding to the project. The Oklahoma City Community Foundation collects these contributions and pays the bills. Hence, what was once a railroad easement running along Couch Drive through downtown is now an oasis of fountains, statues, trees, flowers, and picnic tables.

Central Oklahoma 2020 began as a joint effort of Leadership Oklahoma City, the Association of Central Oklahoma Governments, and the Oklahoma City Community Foundation. The idea that brought them together was a grass roots strategic planning process for this area that would draw participants with diverse backgrounds together for open discussion and the exchange of objective information. The structure of the meetings has been designed by the National Civic League, an organization that has undertaken similar projects in other cities and is facilitating the process here. The kickoff has been held in May, the groundwork has been laid, and the sparks of have begun to fly. The stakeholders who were asked to participate in this process have begun to take ownership, which was the hope at the beginning. The next step is to reach consensus on a focus for the plan.

The Board of Trustees and staff of the Oklahoma City Community Foundation administer endowment funds that have supported charitable causes in central Oklahoma since 1969. An endowment fund provides annual income through investment earnings. The Community Foundation owes its beginning to founder John Kirkpatrick and other Oklahoma City citizens who recognized the need for a steady and permanent source of income for non-profit agencies. To realize this goal, they created an entity patterned after the most successful community foundations in the nation. In the words of its first annual report, the Oklahoma City Community Foundation was "designed to meet the test of time."

A twelve-member Board of Trustees representing a broad range of groups in the community oversees the distribution of endowment earnings. Officers from three local banks comprise the Fiscal Committee, which manages the Foundation's assets. This division of responsibility between board and fiscal trustees is one of the key underpinnings of the Community Foundation's structure.

Today, with permanent assets of $81 million, we are the 25th largest of 300 community foundations in the United States, providing ongoing financial support to more than 200 charitable organizations.

ESTABLISHING A FUND

The Oklahoma City Community Foundation would not exist without donors. Assets, once contributed, must become a permanent part of its endowment. However, the Community Foundation is firmly committed to recognizing and preserving the original charitable intentions of all donors.

At the Oklahoma City Community Foundation, small donor contributions receive the same investment return, for the same minimal administrative cost, as large donor contributions. While donations of all sizes are welcome, a Donor Fund is established when total contributions reach $1,000. A Name Fund is created when total contributions reach $5,000.

Donations can be made by an individual or a group. They may be made in many forms – cash, marketable securities, life insurance, oil and gas royalties, real estate, and life income trusts.

Donors may choose to advise the Community Foundation on how they wish the earnings from their donations to be distributed or they may wish to contribute to the Fund for Oklahoma City, an undesignated fund that enables the Trustees to respond to changing needs in the community.

Whatever the choice, by contributing to the Oklahoma City Community Foundation you give a lasting gift to your community. We welcome the opportunity to visit with you.

The stained glass window on the cover of this annual report is one of the windows which adorn three sides of the First German Methodist Church of Oklahoma, now the home of Skyline Urban Ministries. Skyline, a Methodist social service agency, has a Designated Fund at the Oklahoma City Community Foundation.

The windows of the church, built in 1907, were donated by Anton Classen in memory of his mother. Classen, an Oklahoma City civic leader of German descent, was born in the United States and came to Oklahoma City from St. Louis. He founded the former Epworth University and was appointed by President McKinley in 1887 as the receiver of the United States Land Office in Oklahoma.

The interior of the church is both German, due in part to the stained glass windows, and non-German, due to the unusually open and free space. It remains a symbol of assimilation and ethnic identity in this community.
