Remembering a Son's Duty to His Country

While they had hoped he would go to college following his graduation in 2002 from Putnam City North High School, Jim and Janet Rogers were proud of their only child Jeffrey when he made the decision to first serve his country as a Marine before attending college.

"As parents, we had stressed to Jeff the importance of a higher education and how it would affect his future," says Mrs. Rogers. "He agreed and understood but after watching the horrific toll of the 2001 terrorist attacks on September 11th, he said we had to keep our world safe."

Shortly before graduating from high school, Jeff joined the Marines. He scored so high on his military entrance exam that he was awarded a $50,000 scholarship from the Marines. Jeff would never get the opportunity to utilize that scholarship.

Cpl. Jeffrey Rogers was killed Nov. 16, 2005 in New Ubaydi, Iraq during Operation Iraqi Freedom.

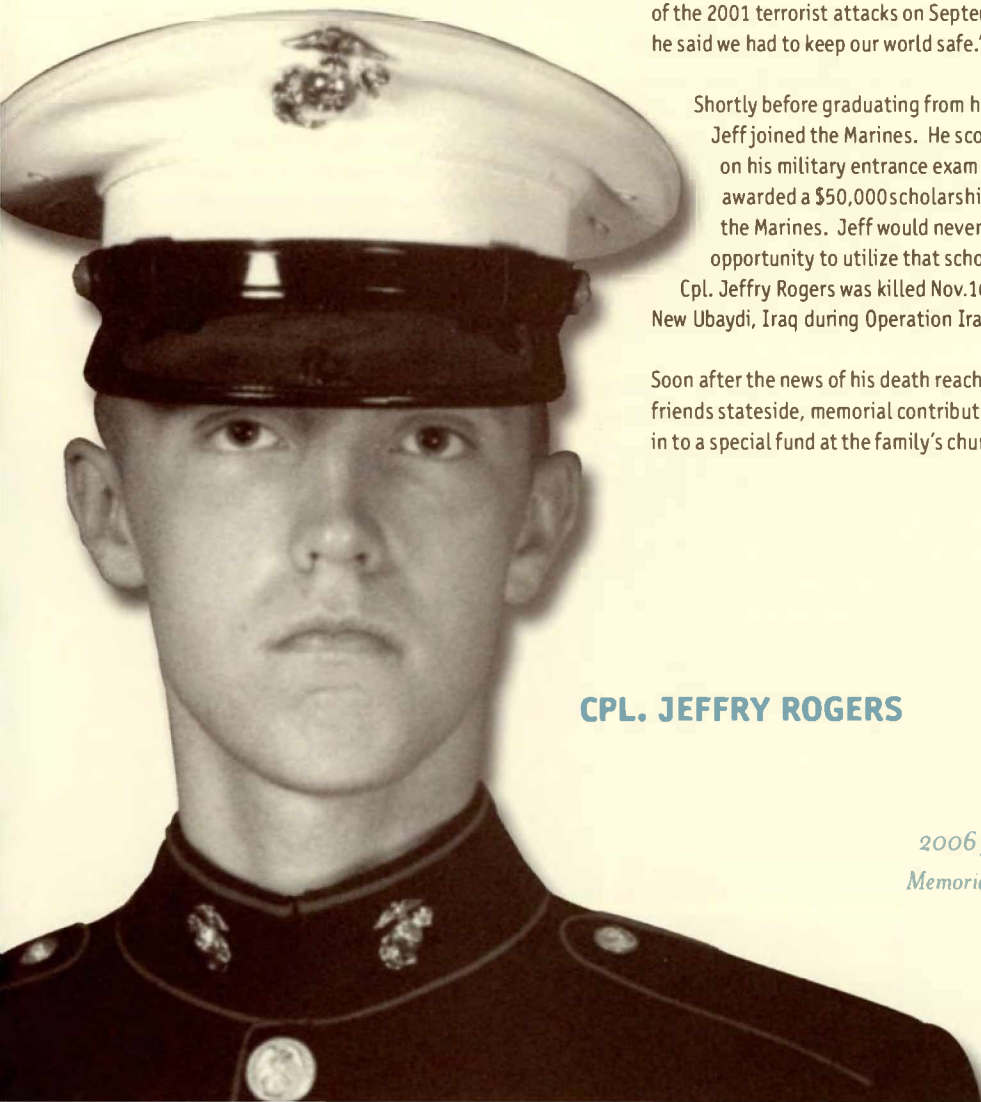

Soon after the news of his death reached family and friends stateside, memorial contributions poured in to a special fund at the family's church.

Mr. and Mrs. Rogers determined the best use of the generous gifts in combination with their own gifts would be to create a scholarship fund in memory of their son. Working with their certified public accountant Randy Compton, the Rogers came to the Oklahoma City Community Foundation in March 2006 to create the Jeffrey Rogers Education Memorial Fund. The fund supports a scholarship to a deserving graduating senior from Jeffrey's alma mater, Putnam City North High School.

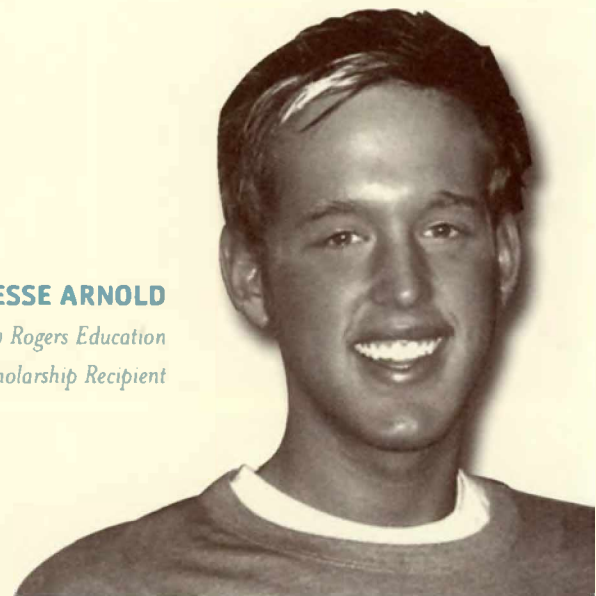

"We wanted to share with others our pride and the ultimate sacrifice Jeff gave to help with the fight for freedom around the world," his mother explains. "We saw the fund as a specific legacy to help individuals secure a better future for themselves and their families."

Jesse Arnold, a 2006 graduate of Putnam City North High School, is the first recipient of the memorial scholarship. As the first in his family to attend college, Jesse is thrilled with the opportunities this scholarship is providing for him. Jesse will attend the University of Central Oklahoma in the fall.

"I believe that if I have a college education, I will be able to get most jobs I want if I work hard at it," says Jesse, who wants to one day own his own business. "I can't begin to express what this scholarship means both to me and to my family."

The Jeffry Rogers Memorial Education Fund is one of more than 90 independent scholarship and award funds administered by the Oklahoma City Community Foundation that comprise the state's largest independent scholarship program. Donors such as the Rogers family come to us to establish scholarship endowments for a variety of reasons such as a memorial for a loved one. Other donors may want to establish a legacy at their alma mater or encourage students to seek a degree in a particular field. Whatever the reason, the Oklahoma City Community Foundation works with individuals, families, businesses and organizations who all share the goal of rewarding worthy students. In 2006, more than 500 students will receive financial support thanks to the scholarship endowments we administer. Most importantly, these students are being encouraged to continue their education past high school and improve their lives.

Since 1969, donors have been coming to the Oklahoma City Community Foundation to establish endowments for scholarships and charitable organizations and causes they care about. They trust us to administer the endowments according to their wishes. In addition, our investment policies and procedures ensure prudent and perpetual management of the funds. The Oklahoma City Community Foundation administers nearly 1,000 funds with assets exceeding more than $490 million. We want to work with you to establish an endowment such as a scholarship fund. Contact us at 405/235-5603 or visit www.occf.org for more information.

Investing in the Future Through Endowments

The scholarship and award funds listed in this publication are permanent funds, also known as endowments. Endowments are funds that are invested with the intent to provide perpetual support for a charitable purpose and in these cases, scholarships and awards. The Oklahoma City Community Foundation Board of Trustees monitors the investment process so that every scholarship endowment receives quality professional investment management.

How Scholarship Endowments are Invested

All scholarship endowments are pooled with other Oklahoma City Community Foundation funds and invested by a team of professional investment managers. Our investment policy calls for a portfolio of stocks and bonds that is highly diversified and of high quality. Capital preservation and growth necessary to protect against inflation are the policy's fundamental objectives. Our Investment Committee monitors the performance of these managers and devotes significant time to consideration of issues of asset allocation and appropriate diversification.

The Investment Committee is comprised of Trustees and investment professionals in the community and is led by Investment Counsel, James K. Hotchkiss of Hotchkiss and Associates of Chicago, Ill. This proven investment strategy has resulted in investment performance that has out performed the market benchmark indices for the past 10 years compounded. Total investment performance for the fiscal year ended June 30, 2006 was 7.9 percent. Details of quarterly investment performance results are available at www.occf.org.

How Annual Distributions are Determined

Cash distributions from a scholarship and award endowment are based on a spending rule that calls for distributing 5 percent of the market value of the fund, averaged over the previous eight quarters. Any remaining investment return over the 5 percent is left in the fund to increase the fund value and to protect the future income stream against inflation. Historical trends in the marketplace indicate that 5 percent is an appropriate amount to distribute while still maintaining the purchasing power of the fund. This is based on the assumption that total investment return for a balanced portfolio can reasonably be expected to average at least 8 percent and inflation over time will average 3 percent. A majority of large endowment funds for colleges and foundations use the 5 percent spending rule because the annual distribution from the fund is predictable and is not tied to current income, asset allocation or shifts in market conditions in any one year. This spending policy allows investment managers to focus on achieving the best total return for the portfolio that enhances the fund over time. Cash distributions from endowments are made following the end of the fiscal year and the audit of the Oklahoma City Community Foundation. Scholarship payment plans coordinate with student enrollment schedules.

For more information on the investment and distribution policies of the Oklahoma City Community Foundation, please contact Carla Pickrell at 405/235-5603 or c.pickrell@occf.org.

Frank & Merle Buttram String Awards Fund

“Without strings, the great heritage of symphonic and chamber music given us through the centuries will be lost,” she once said.

Successful oilman Frank Buttram and his wife Merle shared many things during their 50-year marriage including a deep appreciation for music. A millionaire by the time he reached his early 30s, Mr. Buttram loved to recall that the first 50 cents he ever earned picking cotton at the age of eight was spent for a songbook. Mrs. Buttram, a former professor of violin at the University of Oklahoma, helped to establish string music programs at many Oklahoma City high schools. “Without strings, the great heritage of symphonic and chamber music given us through the centuries will be lost,” she once said. To encourage more young people studying to be string musicians, the couple created the Buttram String Awards shortly after World War II. Today, 60 years after they started the fund, the couple’s efforts to encourage the study of stringed instruments live on, thanks to their son, Dorsey Buttram. With the administrative assistance of the Oklahoma City Community Foundation, the fund continues to reward students through an annual competition and award program.

Scholarship & Award Endowment Funds

The scholarship and award funds listed in this publication represent the endowments administered by the Oklahoma City Community Foundation as of May 15, 2006. This list does not include the scholarships and awards provided through individual donor advised funds or charitable organization endowment funds. Achieving Your Goals Through Scholarship & Award Endowment Funds administers the state's largest independent scholarship award program. The more than 90 funds in the program were established by a wide variety of donors, organizations and families. Scholarship and award funds provide an efficient way for donors to help students with educational needs or to recognize achievement. The biggest challenge to donors and sponsoring organizations is the long-term administration of the fund. That is why the Oklahoma City Community Foundation is ideally suited to assist the donors and to continue the process in perpetuity.

The Oklahoma City Community Foundation

How to Establish a Fund

A scholarship or award endowment fund may be established with a minimum amount of $20,000 which can be accumulated over an agreed upon time period. A permanent named scholarship that is administered as part of an existing Oklahoma City Community Foundation scholarship program or another larger program may be established with a minimum amount of $10,000. The funds are invested according to the policy outlined on page 2 and benefit from the accounting, administrative and development services at the Oklahoma City Community Foundation. Funds can be established by contributing a variety of assets including cash, stocks and bonds, real estate, oil and gas interests and royalty interests. In addition, donors can create a scholarship or award endowment through a planned gift such as retirement plan assets, charitable gift annuity or trust or a bequest through a will. Our staff is available to assist donors and their professional advisors on the most effective means of creating an endowment.

The Oklahoma City Community Foundation will work with donors to help them establish appropriate criteria and forms, help promote the scholarships through the Oklahoma County Guidance Counselor Network and the Scholarship Center at www.occf.org and administer a selection process if needed.

Who Should Consider Establishing a Scholarship Endowment?

The Oklahoma City Community Foundation's scholarship program is an ideal choice for:

- Donors who wish to establish funds that allow students to attend a number of schools.
- Donors who need assistance with the selection and administration process.
- Donors who no longer reside in Oklahoma but want to benefit local students.
- Organizations that want visibility for their scholarship programs.
- Scholarship sponsors who want to participate in the selection process but not the other administrative details.
- Scholarship funds which would like the benefit of professional investment services and want to develop additional donors.
- Donors who wish to establish a fund as a memorial and want visibility for the fund.

If you are interested in establishing your own scholarship or award fund please contact us at 405/235-5603, we'll work with you to create a fund that achieves your goals.

In accepting a contribution to any fund, the Oklahoma City Community Foundation trustees commit to the donor that the contribution will be protected for the charitable purpose originally intended. The variance power, as described in the governing documents of the Oklahoma City Community Foundation, assures donors that if the charitable purpose of their contributions becomes impractical or impossible, the distributions will be directed to similar purposes in the community.
