Your Connection to Impactful Giving

A California native, David is celebrating his 56th year on the faculty of Casady School. In 2005, he established an advised fund at the Community Foundation that allows him to support several charitable organizations close to his heart, like the cerebral palsy center where his brother lived for more than 50 years, or Casady School, where David discovered his love of teaching.

“Having a single place through which I can donate to so many different organizations makes it very easy,” said David. “It’s also nice to know that when I’m gone, I have given instructions on how to distribute my charitable funds.”
